Salve!

"The smart way to own a dream home in Italy at a fraction of the cost!"

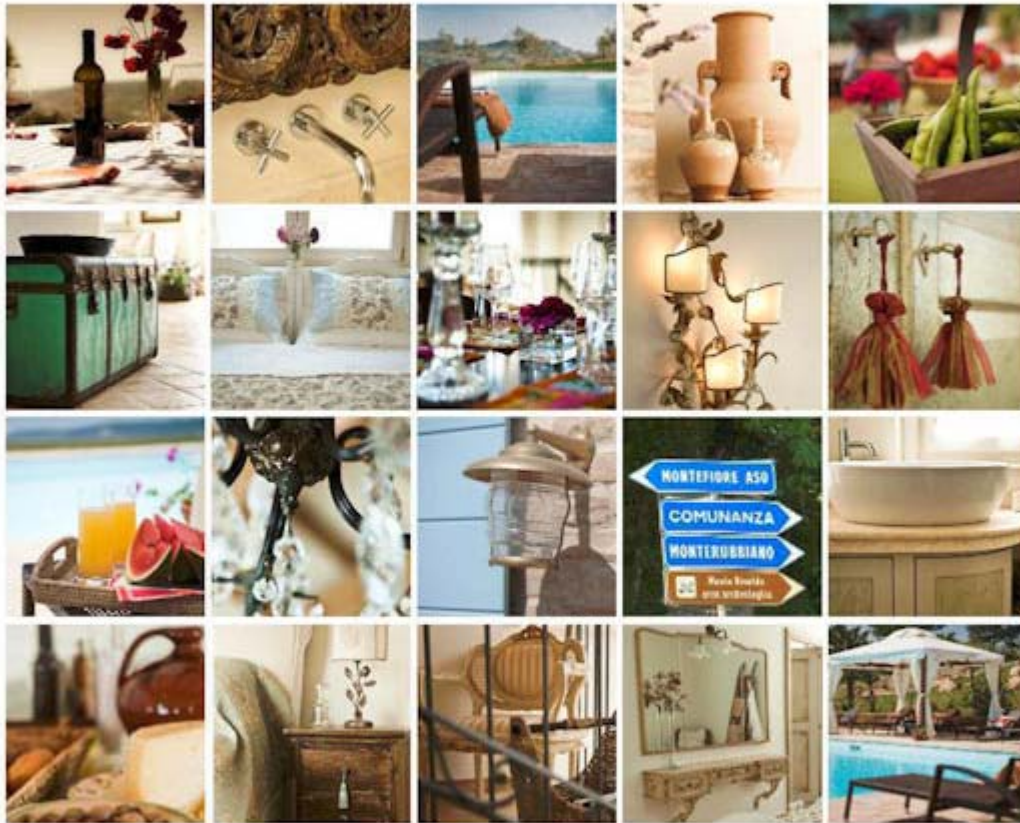

"Why spend a million euro's buying a second home, with all the associated purchase and running costs, when in reality you are unlikely to use this second home for more than four or five weeks a year?"

"Better that you buy the weeks you want, at a much lower price and share all the costs with your co-owners. This way you contain the cost, get a part share of a prestigious, valuable property and make full use of your asset."

Autumn - a great time to visit Le Marche

Autumn in Le Marche is really beautiful, with blue skies, temperatures cooler after the long hot summer and lots of activity on the land.

You will be tempted to have long walks on the beach, possibly even a swim, delightful treks in the mountains and gentle bike rides along the coastal promenades.

In October you will be able to enjoy the vendemmia (grape picking and wine making season), followed in November by olive picking and the production of olive oil.

See the new vineyard section of the Appassionata website for more information on developments at our own vineyard.

The truffle hunting season in Le Marche is underway!

These pricey little nuggets, cloaked in an earthen sheath, have inspired gastronomic pilgrimages for centuries.

Specially trained dogs compete with their owners to find the ever illusive white truffle, which tastes divine, not surprising as it is the most expensive food in the world.

Local festivals celebrate this important time of year and truffles, both black and white, are readily available in local restaurants.

We hope to see you in Italy soon!

A presto,
